Bowling Admits Firing Three Shots to Call Collins Collins Found the Burgiar in Coroner Fitzpatrick's House-Another Burgiar May Have Shot Freeman. Shortly before 3 o'clock yesterday morning Peliceman Collins of the Madison street station heard three pistol shots in Montgomery street. He ran in that direction, and at the house of

Policeman Dowling of the Oak street station, 27 Montgomery street, saw the policeman leaning out of the window. "There are burglars in the yard," shouted

Dowling, who was in his night robe.
Collins was admitted to the house, and Dowling explained that he had fired the shots to alarm the officer. Collins ran into the rear yard just in time to see a man going over the fence. Collins shouted to him and was answered by a shot from a revolver in another corner of the yard. The yard was intensely dark, and as the bullet whistled by his ears the officer hesitated a moment. Two more shots followed, and by the flash in the dark the officer saw a man pointing the revolver directly at him. The pointing the revolver directly at him. The officer ran toward the man, but the burglar was too quick for him and sprang over the fence and disappeared.

Colins jumped over the fence into the next yard, just in time to see the first burglar scaling another fence. His chase led him into Coroner Fitzpatrick's yard, when the burglar disappeared. A hasty examination showed that a small windöw leading into the basement of Coroner Fitzpatrick's house had been forced open. The officer entered through the window and ran up the stairs to the first floor, just in time to see the burglar light a match in the hellway and try to unleck the street door. The officer grappled with him, but the struggle was short.

short.
"I give in," said the burgiar; "I am wounded."
The noise of the scuffle aroused Coroner Fitzshort.

"I give in," said the burgiar; "I am wounded,"
The noise of the scuille aroused Coroner Fitzpatrick's family. The women commenced to scream and the Coroner, grabbling an old blunderbuss, ran down stairs to the policeman's assistance. The burgiar was bleeding from two wounds in his left breast, but he put on a bold front. He said he was no burgiar, but was in Henry street, when he heard people yelling from the windows. He started in pursuit of a burglar be saw running, and nollowed him into Coroner Fitzpatrick's yard, where the burgiar fired the shots at him. He said he had chased the burgiar into the house.
When searched at the station house five pawn tickets were found in his pockets. He was taken to the Gouverneur Hospital, where he gave the name of Frank Freeman and said he lived at 240 Cherry street. He is 229 pears old. Later he was transferred to believue. His wounds are not uangerous.
Hortly after his capture Jacob Glass of 264
Henry street reported that about 2:30 o'clock
he and wile were awakened by hearing some one ransacking their apartments. The man fied when they soreamed. Glass missed 39 from his clothes. The man escaped into the yard.
The police are endeavoring to learn how Freeman received his wounds. Collins did not draw his gun, and Dowling anys he fired his revolver in the air when he airmed Policeman Collina. The police think that two buvglars were working independent of each other, and that the one who gut away mistook Freeman for an officer.

HERE'S A PLUCKY TOUNGSTER. Beserted by His Friends, Young Goorg Choate Tries for Himself.

Agent Wilson of the Gerry society appeared before Magistrate Kudlich in the Morrisania Court yesterday, having in his custody George Thoate, . + years old, of Careyville, Mass., who was described in this city by Elliah Stone, also of Careyville, who, the boy says, brought hen to this city on the pretence of getting him work as an office boy. The boy is a bright, plucky little fellow, and tells a straightfor-ward story. He told the Magistrate that his father, Charles M. Choate, is a teamster in Careyville, and has a large family. Times were hard, and last Tuesday Stone, who keeps a grocery and grain store in the town, offered a grocery and grain store in the town, obsered to bring young George to New York and get him work where he could earn money enough to support himself and help the family. George says that his mother consented, and about moon he and Stone took a train at Carey-

George says that his mother consented, and about mon he and Stone took a train at Careyville and reached this city at 9 o'ciock that night. They went to a hotel called the Sherman House, the boy says, and remained there that Thursday. On Wednesday he went about with Stone, and on Thursday went out by himself looking for work, but failed in getting any. On Thursday night, take boy says. Stone took him that he would leave for l'minisciphia and Pittsburgh on the fellowing corning, and that he (teorie) would have to be out for himself and do the best he could be getting work.

Induction the himself and do the best he could be getting work.

Inducting the himself eliow started out on his own hook, going from store to store on he off-second street and up fifth avenue. Then he walked through Central Park to Eighth avenue, at the sorth end of the l'ark, where he resumed his search, only to fail, and when hearly exhausted, had to appeal to a policeman for assistance.

Alagaritate kundlich was surprised at the boy's pluck and perseverance, and committed him to the care of Agent Wilson, who said that he would be sent nome as toon as word could be received from his parents.

SHOT BY A QUARRITMAN.

Marshal Hanna of Hudson Heights, N. J., Gets a Beath Wound,

Marshal James Hanan of Oakside avenue. Hudson Heights, was shot and fatally injured yesterday afternoon by Gurssette Salvanni, an Italian quarryman, whose arrest on a charge of disturbing the peace Hanan had attempted. Salvanni was employed in a quarry just above Hudson Heights, in Hergen county, and lived in a small but. A few days ago Salvanni quar-

in a small but. A few doys ago Salvanni quarrelled with his fellow workmen, and one of them sued out a warrant for his arrest. Hanan was sent to make the arrest.

Yesterday afternoon the marshal, believing that salvanni was hiding in the neighborhood, waited at a place where he had a tuil view of the quarrymen's huts, but could not be seen. He had not been there long when Salvanni appeared from one of the luts and joined the other latinas at their work. Hanan attempted to arrest him, but Salvanni ran back into his hut. In a moment he came out again with a double-barrened shotgon, which he had loaded with bird snot and slugs. Standing in front of the hut door, he levelled the gun at Hanan, who was a few yards away, and lired. The shot struck the marshal-below the left breast and he fell face downward. The Italian drouped thagun and escaped, Dr. Justin of Guttenburg, who dressed Hanan's fajuries, said that the wounded man would not recover.

THE OPERA.

A Matineo Performance of "Trovatore" at the Academy of Music,

No applause followed an announcement made by Col. Mapleson yesterday afternoon, a few moments before the rising of the curtain. Mr. Mapleson himself acknowledged that be was sorry to say what he did, but he was obliged to inform his audience, owing to the hoarseness of Mme. Bonaplata, that Mme. Dottl would sing the rôle of Leonora in "Trovatore." better lesson touching the admirable effects of patience and perseverance could be given than is offered by the result of these virtues now discovered in Mme. Dotti, for the lady has distinctly improved in singing since she was last heard upon the stage of the Academy. Her high tones are often pleasant and powerful. The whole voice, indeed, is used with skill and extreme care, the best use being made of such ability as Mme. Dotti possesses in natural endowment. She has not a particle of dramatic instinct, nor has she acquired anything that could possibly be misconstrued into the feeblest attempt at acting, construed into the feeblest attempt at acting, but she is evidently industrious, and still more distinctly determined, and she did appear in the rôle of the heroine in an opera every other part of which was exceptionally orilliant and deserving of enthusiastic commendation.

As was said in a previous notice of the New Imperial Opera Company, the great foundation rock of security in all performances consists in the remarkable leading of Signor Bimboni. There is a man in the conductor's chair who is desulve interested in every movement upon the rock of security in ail performances consists in the remarkable leading of Signor Bimboni. There is a man in the conductor's chair who is deeply interested in every movement upon the stage, who feels with keen sensitiveness every rythm and swell of the accumulating phrases—who is, indeed, played upon by the score which he knows so well by heart, and who in turn plays upon every choir in his orchestrif as easily as he would draw the varied stops of an organ to make a many colored tone picture. Bimboni is sympathetic with the artists, and considerate of them, helpful to them, but anove all he seems imbued with a deep love for music for its own sake, and to understand and translate most truly its mysterious heavenly language. Any score left in his hands it would seem, must of necessity be interpreted in such a manner as to bring out all its beanties in their fullest light and would receive such a just treatment that each birase would receive its exactly proper weight and proportion.

Three other important becope combined to render this performance of "Trovatore" a memorable one. Mine, Scalchi made her reappearance for this season in the part of Arucena, doing splendidly, thrillingly effective work in a role which is one of her must satisfactory ones. She seemed so theroughly at home in this, and so easily the great artist of maturity and experience, that the power site nicasys shows to attract an audience to her, despite certain repeliant excentricities in vocal habits, was fully explained. Sca chi's recitative singing is a perfect model of this difficult branch of art, and her strong accent and appreciation of rhythm are among her highest attributes. She was in splendid health and voice yesterday.

Peturing Count di Luna, a character which, though intended to be a villain, is really quite a him and attractive one. Signor de Anna was at his best. His resonant voice, so beautiful in its literature.

Preturing count of Luna, a character which, though intended to be a villain, is really quite a fine and attractive one. Signor de Anna was at his best. His resonant voice, so beautiful in its tenor-like quality in the upper register, did solendid service throughout, winning, of course, the greatest measure of appliance in that aymetrical and exquisite air, "Il Hallen." Naturally enough Signor Durot, who had proved already that his high tones are more than ordinarily fine, won the usual tempestucus applause from the "high C" in "Di quella Pira," and the equality usual encore. He is never so good as when under the stress of some exciting or exacting aria where anistained force is absolutely required, and high notes upon strong climaxes abound. At other moments the tremolo in which he constantly indulges is a great detriment to his otherwise capable and artistic work. He is by no means deficient either in sympathy or taste—a triffelogy in action and too prone to sing mezza voce and with a gutteral tone during seemingly unimportant but really noticeable phrases, but on the whole an admirable artist, woo might be better if spurred on by necessity or ambition.

NOTES OF MUSICAL EVENTS.

The second week of the New Imperial Italian Opera Company at the Academy of Music com nences to morrow night, when Hericles Dareles Traviata." Signor Randaccio will appear for the first time here singing Edgardo. On Tuesday night "Il Trovatore" will be given at popular prices by the same singers who appeared in the performance yesterday afternoon. On Wednesday night "Les ilugenots" will be sung and serve to introduce her. Signor de Marcht, Mmes, Darcies, Scalcut, Ponzano. and Albini will also appear. On Friday evening Josefine Huguet, who will be heard here for the first time, appears in "La Somnambula," She is a French singer who has lately been popular in Liebon and South America. "Alga" will be repeated at the Saturday matthée by the same cast that has presented the opera during its unprecedented run of three successive performances. On Thursday evening the same opera will be sung at the Academy of Music in Brooklyn by the same singers who were heard here last week.

The season of opera at the Metropolitan Opera House will commence on Monday, Nov. 16, and continue, as usual, for sixteen weeks. The singers of the company are now on their way to this coun try with Maurice Grau. The make-up of the co pany is practically the same that it was last year, atthough there have been several important changes. It is not true that Mrs. Julie Wyman has been engaged. The following is the repertory for the first week as at present arranged; Gounod's popular opera "Faust" will be the opening work, with Mme. Melba as Marquerite, Jean de Heszke as Finast, M. Lassalie as Valentin, Edouard de Reacke as Mephistopholes, and Mme. Mantelli as Siebel. Mile. Bauermeister will be the Martha. Signor Mancinelli will make his reappearance as conduc-tor after a year's absence. For Wednesday even-ing Wagner's opera "Die Meistersinger" will be the bill. In this Mme, Emma Eames will make her reappearance at the Metropolitan Opera House with MM, Jean de Reszke, Plançon, Campanar Bars, D'Aubigne, Bisham, and Edouard de Resske. Signor Mancinelli will be the conductor. On Friday night Wagner's "Tannhauser" will be sung in French with Mmes. Eames, Bauermeister, and Marie Engle, together with MM. Goguy, Piancon, D'Aubigne, De Vries, and Lassaile in the cast. D'Ausgre, blanchell, will also conduct this opera. "Paust" will be given for the second time on the first Saturday matines, with the same cast as on the opening night with the exception of Mile. Officks, who will assume the rôle of Siebel. For the first of the Saturday night operas at popular prices Doni-settl's "La Favorita" will be the attraction, with Miles. Mantelli and Bauermeister and MM. Cremonini, Piançon, and Ancous. Signor Bevignani will conduct. The first of the popular Sunday night

The first concerts of the Symphony Society will take place on Friday, Nov. 6, at 3:80, and Saturconcerts will be given Nov. 12, day, Nev. 7, at 8:15. The programme will be made up entirely of compositions by Peter Illiach Tachalkowaky, the Friday concert failing on the anniversary of his death, Nov. 4, 1893. Tachalkowsky came to America at the invitation of Mr. Damrosch to assist at the series of festival concerts which were given at the inauguration of Carnegle Hall in 1891, when he conducted several of made to Mr. Damrosch by Tschalkowsky, he was the first one to receive the score of his "Symthoni Pathetique," and this work received its fir a performance in America at the regular concerts of the Symphony Society in 1893. The a capella & oruses which will be sung by the Oratorio Society Chorus, are the same that were conducted by Tachaikowaks on the occasion of his visit here. The programme

A series of chamber music concerts will be given this winter at the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences on Wednesday eventus, Nov. 25, Monday evening, Dec. 14, Wednesday evening, Dec. 23, and Thursday evening, Jan. 7. At the first concert the New York Philharmonic Club will play, at the econd the Kneisel Quartet, at the third the New York Ladies' Trio, and at the last the Dannreuther String Quartette. Mez Grenelli will be the soloist at the first concert and Mackenzie Gordon will sinat the third. The concerts will be given in Associate

Dr. Gerrit Smith will commence his thirteenth series of free organ recitals at the South Church, Madison avenue and Thirty-eighth street, to mor row afternoon at half past 4. Dr. Smith has al ready given 210 of three free concerts.

Rosenthal, the planist, has arrived in this city from Germany.

Mmv. Melba has preceded her associates in the Metropolitan company to this country in order to sing with the Boston Symphony Orchestra in Hos-Brooklyn, Philadelphia, and Baltimore, Next May she will sing in South America and has been engaged for a series of concerts to be given in England next fall. Prima donnas, it will be seen, make their plans long in advance.

FOR CHINA AND BRYAN.

Youn Wah Built a Fire and Shot Fire works and Was Fined.

Yong Wah, a Chinese laundryman at 832 Second avenue, was arraigned in the Yorkville Court yesterday morning by Policeman Dwyer of the East Fifty-first street station, charged with a violation of the corporation ordinances in building a bonfire and setting off fireworks in the street. The prisoner was unable to speak English, but through his interpreter, Yong Tong, he told Magistrate Braun that, coming from a silver country as he did, coming from a sover country as he did, and hearing so much recently about Bryan and free silver, he imagined they must both have some connection with his mother country. Therefore when a Bryan parade was passing his place of business on Friday night he built a bonfire of some old boxes and set off numerous packages of freerackers for Bryan and China. Magistrate Brana laughed at his defence and fined him S3, which was paid by the interpreter fined in S3. im 83, which was paid by the interpreter and the two left court.
